NFL Pundits say the Kansas City Chiefs cleaned up during the Leagues' Draft last weekend..

One of the players heading to K.C. is Memphis High School product Brad Cottom.

Cottom starred at E.C.S. before moving on to the Southeastern Conference as a Tight End for Tennessee..

He grew to Man-Size proportions, packing on about 40 pounds to his 6'7" frame...but injuries kept him from putting up Big Numbers for the Vols..

As a matter of fact, he missed most of Senior Season with a wrist injury that required surgery...

Working out at D-1 Sports in Cordova this week before reporting to KC, Cottam says draft day was a nerve racking experience.

Cottam's younger Brother also plays at Tennessee.

Jeff Cottam is also a Tight End and is 6'8", 255 pound Junior.
